

- Veterans may seek funding for battlefield visits or overseas commemorations.
- Veteran groups may seek funding for commemorative projects or reunions.

Funding for individual veterans

Commemorations covered

You may be able to access funding toward:

- revisiting battlefield sites
- attending official commemorations overseas.

Commemoration must relate to a deployment that's Qualifying Operational Service.

Veterans covered

To apply, you must be a veteran of:

- the New Zealand Forces; and
- the battle or campaign being commemorated.

Funding levels

So that as many veterans as possible benefit, there's a limit on how much you may claim.

Current maximum is $2,500.

Repeat claims

You can't claim if you've already had funding at the maximum level—that is:

- $2,500; or
- $2,000, if received before 1 July 2016 (being the maximum then claimable).

If your past funding was below those levels, you may claim for the balance remaining from $2,500.

Funding for veteran groups

National reunions & events

Veteran groups may seek funding for national reunions, or similar events, to commemorate significant military anniversaries.

Maximum funding is $10 per veteran, up to a total of $5,000.

Commemorative projects

Veteran groups may seek funding for projects such as exhibitions, memorials, booklets or oral histories. Projects must:

- be New Zealand-based; and
- commemorate veterans' enduring contributions.

Level of funding is dependent on project's total cost, but may be up to $5,000.
